WHAT IS "FRAMED" CABINETRY?

Our framed Cabinetry with a solid wood frame made of 3/4" x 1 1/2" hardwood that is dado-ed to the top, bottom and sides of the cabinet box.

The frame actually extends beyond the width of the cabinet box creating a 1/4" reveal (known as a scribe) and the inside of the frame extends 3/4" past the inside edges of the cabinet box.

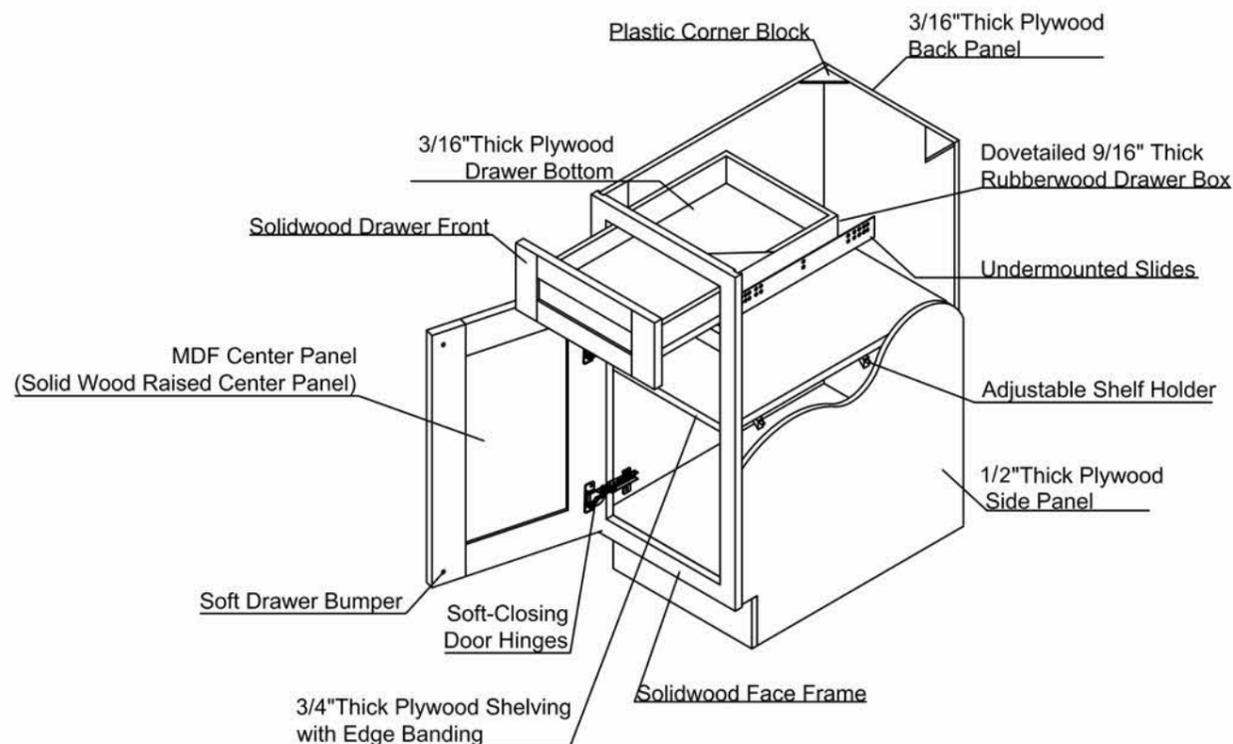

Full Overlay Cabinet Doors

A Full Overlay door style overlaps the face frame of the cabinet by 1 1/4", leaving a 1/4" of the face frame exposed.

Standard Overlay Cabinet Door :

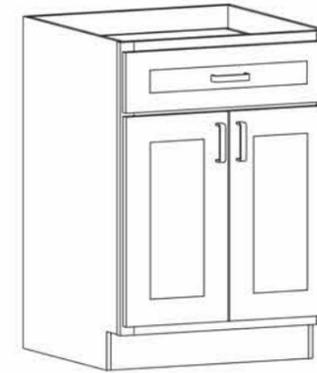

A Standard (or Partial) Overlay door overlaps the face frame by 3/8" and leaves a reveal of 1 1/8" of the face frame exposed on all sides (left, right, top & bottom).

A white-dominated kitchen feels transparent, clean, light—like an unspoiled canvas flooding the space with brightness. It banishes cramped dullness, leaving only crisp freshness. Whether in morning light or artificial glow, it stays spacious and bright; even ingredients seem livelier, letting one relax fully while prepping meals.

The island design and carbon grey kitchen is the choice of many people because it looks simple and elegant. Rational layout and zoning work together to create a clean look. It is a combination of modernism and extreme simplicity.

Location: USA · Atlanta

A kitchen with gray as the main color tone presents a sense of calmness, tranquility, and high-class aesthetic. Different from the depressing nature of black and the dazzling effect of white, it precisely adds an air of elegance and serenity within the balance, enabling people to maintain an inner peace while cooking.

The entire house is made of dark brown walnut wood, like a stable life background color, with the warmth and weightiness of wood, carrying the beauty of daily life, and with its low-key texture, it becomes a solid support for the space.

The dark brown cabinets are like wine brewed by time at dusk, quietly storing the trivialities of daily life. The white countertop is like the moonlight hanging in life, holding the pure concentration during meal preparation.
