Event Introduction :

As the market demand changes rapidly, retailers or brand owners need manufacturers to provide shorter and shorter production lead time in order to better respond to the changes in demand, and at the same time reduce the financial pressure and risk of inventory. In what ways can supply chain parties work with manufacturers to tap their potential and reduce production cycles? Let's talk about it together in this month's webinar.

1. What makes up the delivery date of your order?
2. How to shorten the time before going online?
3. How to shorten the operation time of production line?
