Event Introduction :

In today's world, effective and inspiring leadership has become more important to the success of businesses as they compete for growing markets. The difference between whether an employee will stay with a company or move to a competitor is often based on the effectiveness of the leadership and the quality of relationships between leaders and employees.

Instructor Introduction

Mike MILES

Dr. Mike MILES is currently professor and MBA program Director at the University of Ottawa. He teaches Change Management, Strategy, Leadership, and Governance, and researches intercultural leadership. He is also a consultant both in Canada and in Asia in the areas of organization development and business strategy.
